Verdigrid acquires Endeavor Services Group's web services to introduce Web 2.0 Tools

Boston, MA, November 15, 2008 — Verdigrid is formed to acquire Endeavor Services Group's web services client-base. In an effort to re-focus on its core business and to divest from web-based services, Endeavor Services Group, LLC assigned its web-based customers to Verdigrid.

Verdigrid's roots can be traced back to 1998 as SOHO Website that offered web design and hosting services to (SMB) small and medium-sized businesses. A decade later and today as Verdigrid, its intent is to introduce Web 2.0 Tools to its customers. This will allow Verdigrid users to dynamically update content by managing the backend of their sites and leveraging interactive and streaming data technology from blogs and RSS feeds, as a way to drive more traffic to their current web sites. Moreover, Verdigrid offers various robust web-based business applications including CRM (Customer Relationship Management) and CMS (Content Management System) on a pay-as-you-go model. A more predictable payment scheme aligns well with its current small business customers' need for flexible options.
